

SHIP STRIKERS EXPECTING AID FROM CAPITAL

Twenty thousand shipyard and metal trades workers of the bay district began the second week of their strike today with attention focused on two events.

One of these is the big conference of labor and capital at the White House in Washington, D. C., at which an attempt at an entente cordie between the two forces will be made on the ground of the industry, with the practical aim of cutting the high cost of living.

The other is the arrival from Washington of Alfred S. Gunn, of the Bethlehem Shipbuilding Corporation, and George E. Arps, of the Moore Shipbuilding Company. From these men the strikers expect to receive complete information regarding the position of the Shipping Board and the Navy Department, and their stand may be affected by such advice as is received.

The policy committee of the Employers' Association will take up the report of the two men in the evening, and the Shipping Board in qualifying the plan for an increase in the wages of the shipworkers.

The case of the Pacific Coast ship and metal trades industry will be placed before the White House conference by Gavin McNaught of San Francisco and Joseph P. Valentine, president of the International Molders' Union.

Employers here do not hold out any hope of a resumption of work until after the conference has heard the evidence and the matter has been taken up again at a meeting between officers of the Shipping Board and the Navy Department.

Machinery in the local yards has been greased in preparation for a long period of idleness.

UPRISING PLOT IN ARKANSAS, REPORT

BY INTERNATIONAL NEWS SERVICE.
LEASD WIRE TO TRIBUNE.

HELENA, Ark., Oct. 6.—The situation throughout Phillips county, where race riots have continued intermittently for the past four days, was reported "quiet" by military authorities today.

According to information in the hands of the "committee of seven" appointed by civil authorities to investigate the negro uprising which resulted in the death of 24 persons during the past four days, the negroes had planned a general uprising today.

This information indicates that negroes were to present cotton to several white targets in the county, and to make demands for excessive prices for the cotton and to start a riot with the white business.

A meeting in the "committee of seven" of John C. Crow of Elaine, W. P. Drayton of Osage, J. W. Keene of Lumberton, and J. M. Counts of Elaine and several other white cotton agents were to be shot during the uprising. This was to be the signal for a general negro uprising throughout the county. Several negroes had been designated to get as many white targets as possible as soon as the uprising was launched. Several negroes held by the authorities say they were told the negroes as the uprising was brought to a successful conclusion they were to be given cotton lands taken from the white owners.

A. E. Powell, negro organizer of the "Protestant Farmers' Household Union," said to be back of the proposed uprising, has been taken to Arkansas City, where he is held under a heavy guard to prevent escape.

Examining trials for a number of the ringleaders in the plot will be held here late today.

POLICE GRILL GUNMEN SUSPECTS

ALAMEDA, Oct. 6.—The Alameda police are investigating the actions of three men of three men from San Francisco, arrested on Webster street, between the Webster street bridge and the Alameda Bethlehem plant at 2:30 o'clock this morning by Police Officer Monte Tucker. Efforts to ascertain if the trio were concerned in the Dunsmuir murder in San Francisco have so far revealed no tangible results.

Each of the three men who drove the death car containing the slayers of Dunsmuir, was brought to Alameda by the San Francisco detectives. Dunsmuir declared that none of the three were in the car the night Dunsmuir was killed.

The three men are: Henry Glasser, born in Missouri, 37 years of age, living in San Francisco, three years and more, a laborer; Louis Hurre, born in San Francisco, 45 years of age, a teamster; Jack Brignone, 46 years of age, born in California, a laborer.

The three said that they had been drinking in San Francisco and came to Oakland on the last creek boat Sunday night.

The detectives who questioned the trio this morning seemed inclined to believe the stories of the men. Asked where they secured the liquor, the men said that they could get plenty from the Italian. Two of the men claimed to have just returned from the Alaska fisheries.

EDICT DEFINING INTOXICANTS TO BE EXPEDITED

WASHINGTON, Oct. 6.—The Government in the Supreme Court today moved to expedite a final decision on what amount of alcohol in beverages constitutes intoxicating liquors.

Senator King asked to advance the case of the government against the Standard Brewery, Inc., of Maryland.

Lower courts held that 2 1/2 per cent is intoxicating. The government will insist that the beer of one-half of one per cent of alcohol be declared intoxicating.

KING, CARDINAL PRAY TOGETHER

BOSTON, Oct. 6.—King of the state and Prince of the church, Albert of the Belgians and Desiderius, Cardinal Mercier, worshipped yesterday under the vaulted dome of Holy Cross Cathedral. The two most heroic figures of the little land which was the earliest prey of Germany met here for the first time upon the soil of the land which succeeded them.

The towering figure in the shawl of a Neutonian general and the venerable prelate in his crimson robes of office, each in his own way typified a courage which was unconquerable. The king inspired his arms on the field to deeds of valor, while the other kept the faith which lighted the fire of hope in the hearts of a tortured people.

The scene within the cathedral was unique in the annals of the western world. It might have been a reproduction of a medieval painting. Two cardinals sat upon their thrones and with them the King, his Queen and her attendant, as was their royal right under the laws of the church.

RAIL OFFICIAL HURT IN CRASH

SALEM, Ore., Oct. 6.—Superintendent T. L. Brinkley, of the Salem Street Railway Co., is lying at the point of death in a Salem hospital and three others are injured as a result of a collision at 5:25 this morning between train 54 of the Southern Pacific and a street car at the State and Fifth streets. Superintendent Brinkley is suffering from internal injuries.

Metropolitan William Lott, in charge of the car, is in a dazed condition. The other two men, Metcalf, Foreman and Metcalf Williamson, were injured.

The accident occurred when the street car started across the Southern Pacific tracks, behind the first section of train 54, and thus not aware of the second section, which followed closely behind.

Strike Is at End in Great Britain Both Sides Now Claim Victory

LONDON, Oct. 6.—British railwaymen were returning to their posts today after both the government and the strikers had made concessions which ended this country's labor strike.

On many of the lines trains were in operation early today. In some quarters fear was expressed that strikers might cause some trouble, but there was no indication of it in London, where the night shifts reported for work last night.

With both sides claiming victory, the advance British was concerned chiefly with the simple fact that a settlement had been reached.

Regardless of the partisan claims of recovery, the British recognized generally that both sides conceded some points. Both returned enough to "save their faces" and both were plainly conscious of the terrible possibilities involved in a failure to settle the dispute.

Under the terms of the settlement, wages remain at their present level as of September, 1920, when they were followed in the light of existing circumstances. The government will pay the arrears in wages which were withheld owing to the strikers' breach of contract. The government also made the concession of resuming negotiations with the strikers after the premier had refused to engage in further discussion until the men return to work.

The press was markedly sympathetic today, the Daily Telegraph and the Morning Post emphasizing that the terms were practically identical to those rejected before the strike. Papers point out that the addition of six months before wages were reviewed was a mere "saver of face" since it is evident that the cost of

I'VE FORGOTTEN MY PIANO, SAYS PADEREWSKI

PARIS, Sept. 21.—(Correspondence of The Associated Press).—Interviewed after the signature of the Austrian treaty, Ignace Jan Paderewski remembered the information that he had quite forgotten how to play the piano. The journalist, after asking the Polish premier numerous questions relating to the present situation in Poland, finally asked: "And your art, Mr. President, have you given it up completely?"

"Yes," replied the former artist. "I have forgotten it. I have little time to think of it. I have not played a piano for two years and three months. I do not regret it."

Then he added with pride: "I am happy to have sacrificed to the COUNCIL FINDS REMEDIES FOR REDUCING H.C.L.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 6.—After an investigation of the high cost of living problem, the council of national defense finds:

That the nation's productive powers have not been fully utilized since the armistice.

That too few goods, notably the necessities of life, have been produced and that even some of these goods have been withheld from the market, and therefore from the people.

That the high cost of living is due in part to unavoidable war waste and increase of money and credit.

That there has been and is considerable profiteering, intentional and unintentional.

The council believes that the remedies for the situation are:

To produce more goods, and to produce them in proportion to the needs of the people.

To stamp out profiteering and stop unnecessary hoarding.

To enforce vigorously present laws and promptly to enact such further laws as are necessary to prevent and punish profiteering and needless hoarding.

To bring about better co-operation and method in distributing and marketing goods.

To keep both producer and consumer fully informed as to what goods are needed, and as to what supplies are available, so that production may anticipate the country's demands.

The council is composed of Secretaries Baker, Daniels, Lane, Houston, Redfield and Wilson and Grover C. Clarkson, as directors.

CALIFORNIA'S BOYS RETURN FROM SIBERIA

California boys, 103 of them, who have been serving with the American forces in Siberia, arrived today. When the Transport Thomas docked in San Francisco this morning about after cheer greeted the returning heroes who have been fighting on Russian soil. The Thomas was expected to land yesterday. Hundreds of friends and relatives stayed at the dock through the long hours waiting for the first glimpse of the great ship which was bringing their loved ones into harbor. Shortly after 6 o'clock last night, wireless flashed the word that the Thomas was passing the Heads, making for anchor at the transport docks. By the regulations which prohibit a vessel entering port after sundown must await morning to undergo quarantine inspection, transport officials could not permit the service men passengers to go ashore until the early morning which was prepared for them.

Shortly after disembarkation this morning the men were taken to Fort McDowell to undergo the sanitation process, which will occupy about eight hours. They will be returned to the Presidio for demobilization.

The Thomas brought into port 543 duration-of-the-war men from Siberia, 103 of whom were California boys. The local men returning were: Oakland—John J. Brito, Lorenzo Bronckoff, John P. Dwyer, Prescott S. Edmonis, Earl W. Hurdsey, Edwin Nicolaissen, John N. Peterson, Henry Roski, Verne J. Taylor.

Alameda—Bonifacio Lagunas, Manuel Perry.

Among others were: Richmond—John G. Cardozo, Stephen A. Dufow.

GIRL DECOYS USED TO AID D'ANNUNZIO

FUME, Friday, Oct. 3.—(By The Associated Press).—Legions of Fiume girls are enticing soldiers to desert from the ranks of the Italian army forces stationed at Abukha and other points on the Adriatic line in order to increase Gabriele d'Annunzio's army of occupation.

The girls leave Fiume hidden in motor trucks and are driven over a circuitous route in order to evade the watchfulness of the Carabinieri who are stationed between the regular Italian army and d'Annunzio's forces. When they leave the motor trucks at various points the girls begin work quietly by talking to soldiers on the street and the soldiers in turn convey word to their comrades. Sometimes, through this method, entire battalions have gone over to the Fiume army, among them one battalion of bersaglieri and another of machine gunners.

SENATE FIGHT ON SHANTUNG UP THIS WEEK

WASHINGTON, Oct. 6.—Shantung will be the chief issue in the peace treaty fight in the Senate this week. The amendment to restore to China the German concessions in the Chinese province, which were seized by Japan during the war, probably will be voted on either Wednesday or Thursday.

Owing to the continued opposition of the so-called "mild reservationists" on the Republican side to textual changes in the treaty, even some of the amendment's supporters concede that it is likely to be defeated, just as were the fall amendments last week.

Senators Borah of Idaho, and Norris of Nebraska are among the Republican senators who promise fiery speeches in criticism of the Shantung provisions of the treaty and of the action of the peace conference in admitting Japan's claim to Kiao Chau.

Senator McCumber, Republican of North Dakota, a League of Nations advocate, was scheduled to deliver an address today in opposition to the Johnson amendment to equalize the voting power of the United States and the British empire in the League of Nations assembly. McCumber, an unyielding reservationist, opposed to any Senate action that would require submission of the treaty, or adoption of textual amendments, declared he would take issue with Senator Hiram Johnson, Progressive Republican of California, on the necessity of amendment, of which Johnson is the author.

STATE LABOR FEDERATION IN CONVENTION

BAKERSFIELD, Oct. 6.—More than six hundred delegates of the State Federation of Labor met here today in the twentieth annual convention of the organization. The convention will end Saturday. The delegates represent approximately 100,000 laborers. Aside from the appointment of committees and the formal opening of the convention there was little to feature today's session. City Manager R. S. Denton welcomed the laborites and President Daniel P. Murphy replied. The old slogan of "collective bargaining" has been displaced by the slogan "a voice in the management of industry."

Striking Carmen Will Meet Tonight

Full discussion of the strike situation will take place tonight when the 150 members of Carmen's union No. 122 meet at the civic auditorium in a secret session. It is understood that President Lee F. Laytham and other members of the union's executive board will speak to the men, explaining in full what has transpired in the peace conferences held today and Sunday.

That a definite decision may be reached so far as the union men are concerned is the belief of officials, although no one would vouch for a statement to the effect that final action might be reached tonight. Every man of the local union is urged to be present.

Officials of Division 132 understood today that pay checks were being mailed to all carmen by the company. This is the only means by which the men could receive their money, it is understood, entrance into the Key Route building for the envelopes being constructed as technical trespassing.

Should prosecution be brought against any carmen arrested during the strike they will have legal counsel provided by the union, it is understood. A local firm of attorneys has been retained for the purpose of meeting all legal problems resultant from the present situation.

Laytham today refused to make any statement as to the probability of the strike's speedy finish. All references to the present situation and to conference which have been held relative to peace, settlement were met with the statement that Joseph Caine, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, had full power.

Laytham reiterated statements he had already made to the effect that Division No. 122, through its membership, expressed the desire to conduct this strike peacefully.

'NO VIOLENCE,' IS PLEA OF CARMEN

Asking that a non-violence attitude be taken by the public during the strike, President Lee F. Laytham today made public a statement containing an itemized list of proposals received by them while in Europe. Mr. Tumulty's statement follows: "While on his western trip the President's attention was called to the resolution of Representative Rodenberg of Illinois and the statements of Senators Penrose and Sherman in regard to gifts received by the President and Mrs. Wilson while they were in Europe. ROBBERIES ARE INCREASING AS PRICES GO UP

MANILA, Sept. 5.—(Correspondence of The Associated Press)—Reports from the provinces indicate that owing to the great shortage of rice and high prices of other food stuffs, robberies are on the increase. Representatives of commercial firms have asked permission to carry fire arms through some of the provinces where government officials have advised that unarmed individuals incur great risk by traveling alone in the interior. Influenza has made its appearance again and because of the malnutrition common among the poorer classes as a result of high food prices, it is feared it will take a heavy toll. Smallpox, cholera, and a pernicious fever of the malarial type are also swelling the mortality rate in the provinces. In Manila there have been few cases of influenza and these were of a mild type.

NEW HIGHLAND PARK HOSPITAL NAME ADOPTED

It will be "Highland Hospital of Alameda County," and the "of Alameda County" will be dropped in common parlance and the name will be known as "Highland Hospital."

Thus the Board of Supervisors today by resolution disposed of the question as to what the new $2,500,000 hospital being built at Highland Park will be called. Superintendent R. C. Frederick advocated the selection of a name that would identify the hospital as a county institution and at the same time relieve it of the stigma that usually attaches to the name of a public institution. Dr. Frederick told the board that in other places the practice of getting away from the county name is being followed. For instance, one county hospital in Los Angeles is called "The Olive View Hospital," because it overlooks the largest olive orchard in the world. Even in this county the practice was adopted in naming the tuberculosis sanitarium, the Arrow sanitarium. Certain members of the board objected to the elimination entirely of the name of the county and so the "of Alameda County" was tacked on at the end. The final determination of the application for a union of three school districts in the southern end of the county under the name of Sunol Glenn district was postponed until next Monday because of the absence of certain interested parties.

When the obstruction finally gave way and the lava rolled into the ocean once more spectators half a mile distant were deluged by salt water thrown into the air.

The lava cape now extends out about half a mile from the old shore line.

Further seizures and arrests are expected to be made late today.

The theory that a bomb had been exploded was advanced, and the police were called. An investigation showed a firecracker had been thrown on an awning in front of the apartments. It burnt a large hole in the awning.

A Home Recipe for Wrinkled, Saggy Skin

The famous saxolite lotion recommended by beauty specialists for removing wrinkles and for reducing distended pores, can easily be made at home. Ask your druggist for saxolite in powdered form, one ounce, and a half pint of witch hazel. Dissolve the powder in the witch hazel and bottle the lotion. Results are remarkable, and instantaneous. The skin tightens, and this naturally reduces the wrinkles, as well as causes the folds about the neck, cheeks or hands. The tissue beneath the skin also becomes firmer and more solid. One feels much refreshed and exhilarated after using this truly wonderful preparation. Many women look five or ten years younger after using this only a short time. Advertisement.

"IT'S GREATEST IN THE WORLD"

Oakland Woman Praises Tanlac For Restoring Her to Health and Strength

"I suffered with stomach trouble so bad that I almost became nervous wreck before I found Tanlac and was restored to health," was the statement made just the other day by Mrs. F. Tribble of 218 Forty-third street, Oakland, Cal., when seen by the Tanlac representative.

"I had acute indigestion so bad that nearly everything I ate would cause me the most awful kind of pain. My stomach," continuing Mrs. Tribble, "for eight years I suffered with gastritis terribly and at times I would bleed up to the throat. I would hardly eat at all. I would get numb and many a time I would wake up in my husband's arms and rub my body to get the circulation started, and I went night after night without closing my eyes. I would have headaches in the back of my head until it felt like it was splitting. I could hardly stand on my feet, and nearly all the time I felt stuffy and sluggish and didn't have a bit of energy about me. Every morning I had a bad taste in my mouth and felt as if I hadn't been to bed at all the night before."

"I saw about Tanlac in the paper and I decided to try it and see if I could read about it. The first bottle proved to me that it had done for me what I had been told it would do. For I began to improve right away and I kept on getting better until now I feel like a different woman. I have a fine appetite now, sleep sound all night long and don't know what it is to have even so much as an uncomfortable feeling, for every one of my ailments have gone and I haven't felt so good in eight years. My stomach is in fine condition and I am never troubled with gas or indigestion in the least, and those headaches and dizzy spells are all a thing of the past. When I get up in the morning now I don't feel as if I have been up all night and I feel rested and refreshed, and I go all my household work and don't get tired at all. Tanlac has certainly helped me wonderfully and I take pleasure in recommending it and what's more I think it is the greatest medicine in the world."

Tanlac is sold in San Francisco and Oakland by The Oat Drug Company stores.—Advertisement.

JOURNAL TELLS OF SCHOOL NEEDS

In its latest issue, "Our Public Schools," published in the interests of the Oakland school department, the Oakland Journal tells of the present conditions, as evidenced by the proposed $4,975,000 bond issue for the support of the public schools.

Under the title "Problems of the High School," the publication epitomizes in part as follows:

Oakland High School—Present ground space totally inadequate; too near business center. New building imperative.

University High—Main building, old abandoned plant of the Emerson school. Clustering around are eleven portable, with another on the way. Oakland must provide a new school or state will remove its support.

Technical—Housed in old wooden building, original Oakland high school, in no way adapted to work in the school; whole plant veritable firetrap and temporary makeshift.

Girls have no gymnasium. Boys in temporary buildings erected by soldiers in 1918. Imperative that wing be added to meet these needs.

Freemont—Fourteen hundred students enrolled in school which has a normal capacity for 500. Many of the available rooms will be kept work given in poorly equipped basement rooms. No athletic field with track.

Y.W.C.A. AIDS IN HOUSING PROBLEM

In an effort to help in the solution of housing problem for working girls and women, a corps of representatives from the Young Woman's Christian association today are circulating a city wide canvass for the listing of suitable apartments. Registration parties will cover the city in the briefest possible time. The lists of available rooms will be kept on file in the association building, 1515 Webster street. The purpose of the survey is a dual one, having in mind protection to the family which will place it in extra room of the disposal of the women who have had difficulty in finding shelter and the placing of the women in environment which would be to their benefit.

The association hotel and boarding house to the past several months has been obliged to turn away numbers of women daily because of lack of accommodations.

When attempts have been made to locate applicants it has been impossible to find rooms outside the problem prompted the effort to register every available room in Oakland.

Oakland School Women's club, at the beginning of the semester, made a similar survey, although not so comprehensive in placing the teachers in apartments and private homes.

Dr. Reinhardt Will Speak at New School

Dr. Aurelia Henry Reinhardt, president of Mills college, will deliver the address at the opening meeting of the Oakland Community Training School of Religious Education this evening. The meeting will be held in the auditorium of the Y. W. C. A. on Webster street. Other features of the program will be the introduction of the faculty of the school and short announcements concerning the work of the school.

The regular sessions begin next Monday night and continue for twelve weeks. The school is one of a half dozen regularly accredited schools now being conducted according to the standards of the International Sunday school association in northern California.

The meeting this evening is open to the public. Dr. Reinhardt's subject will be "Religion and Education."

Uniform Price of Gasoline Advocated

WASHINGTON, Oct. 6.—Charging that the Standard Oil Company has violated the spirit, although conforming to the letter, of the Supreme Court dissolution order, Senator Harris of Georgia today urged the House public lands committee to accept the amendment to the oil and leasing bill preventing dual ownership of stocks in competing companies and corporations.

He urged, also, specific provision in the bill requiring the charges for gasoline in all parts of the country.

Says War Department is Derelict in Duty

WASHINGTON, Oct. 6.—Charging that Robert Minor, who was arrested by army authorities in France, is now in this country preaching radical doctrine, Senator King of Utah this afternoon attacked the War Department for "dereliction of duty."

A Senate resolution asking the War Department for information as to the cause of Minor's arrest has not been replied to, although it was passed many weeks ago, Senator King declared.

The accident occurred last night at Fifty-ninth street and Shattuck avenue when his bus and a truck, driven by Lola Votto, came together. Votto escaped without injuries. Both machines were wrecked.

U. S. Senate Makes Auto Theft Crime

WASHINGTON, Oct. 6.—The Senate this afternoon passed a bill placing a punishment of $5000 and imprisonment for five years for transporting stolen automobiles in interstate commerce.

Farrar Enthralls With Golden Notes Y. M. I. TO RESTORE OLD MISSIONS

By ROY HARRISON DANFORTH

Under the most astonishing hat, which Miss Farrar, perhaps remembering that California hears her no more for a long time, was exceptionally prodigal. I think I counted nine of them. Such generosity seems to it her somehow; her whole personality on stage exhales graciousness. Either waiting for her capable accompanist, Claude Gotthelf, to reach his "fill ready" or pardoning the energetic auditors who would interrupt his final chords or talking her encores, her genius for this sort of thing made you glad to be there.

TWO OTHER REASONS

Two other reasons also militated against Miss Farrar's achieving her real triumph before late in the afternoon. They were, respectively, Miss Rosita Renard, pianist, and Arthur Jackett, vocalist. The former, a black-haired little bundle of energy in a white coat, made use of a pair of hands as we shall hear this season, possibly excepting Ornstein's. They fairly twinkled through the Saint-Saens "Toccata" and gave an excellent account of themselves in several Chopin numbers and a Lisztian etude.

No other singer has more quickly won recognition for real merit than did Mr. Jackett. Possessed of a tender voice of excellent tone and power as well as a wide range, he almost challenged the Farrar leadership more than once yesterday afternoon. Like her he was allotted three groups of songs in the program, and not one of them but was a fine thing to hear. If there was a choice it was either "Le reve" from "Manon" or "Chaminade's" "Il neige," both of which were offered among his numerous encores, but the recital he gave of Beethoven's "Adelaide," unusual in our program, was a thing of joy with which to start "Dances la Gigue" by Poldowski, took him into the field of more dramatic expression and here, too, he was equal quite to the demand.

Our Geraldine is first, last and all of the time an actress, and she makes her voice act along with everything else. Her dramatic timing, it is safe to say, is hardly surpassed by another voice on the stage today; no other more capable than it of registering a wide and deep range of emotions. Her dramatic chief and almost exclusive differentiation, beauty of tone, savviness and textural richness are not particularly to be sought in it. Outside of them above them, it is sufficient unto itself.

Miss Farrar's three song groups included one from the older masters, starting with "My Mother Bide Me Bind Me Hildr." The second held five numbers of Russian extraction, including Rimsky-Korsakov's fascinating "Eastern Romance," which was for the impressive matching of voice with meaning in which she excels, one of the best portions of the afternoon. Finally, a group of French songs with Massenet's "Ouvre Ton Cœur" and Debussy's "The Song of the Lark." Besides these were the encores of "The Song of the Lark" and "The Song of the Lark."

The Key System Crisis

To the East Bay Public:---

After the platform men of the Key System had made demands for increased pay and changed working conditions and before the Company offered arbitration, the Company beginning with September 23 issued a series of statements to the Public for the purpose of informing them of the situation.

This statement is a resume of them all and is published so that those who did not see the former statements may have a digest of what was published in detail.

Statement No. 1

Mentioned that the present Directors of the road have been acting as voluntary trustees of the property since 1913, for the purpose of avoiding the financial collapse of the Company, which would have greatly injured the development of the East Bay communities.

It states that the change in the rates of pay demanded would increase the annual pay roll of the Company $1,613,000.00.

That we believed that the men did not realize how excessive their demands were.

Statement No. 2

Brought out the fact that as recently as April, 1919, the National War Labor Board sitting as a Court of Arbitration, after a complete and thorough investigation of conditions in Oakland, granted the platform men an increased wage based upon the cost of living.

That the same National War Labor Board in the same decision denied the 8-hour day demanded by the men.

That the present pay of our men is among the highest paid for similar service throughout the United States.

Statement No. 3

Called attention to the fact that most of our platform men have been with us 10 years, many over 20 years.

That we believed that when the men were more familiar with the facts they would give more serious consideration to the crisis confronting the public—the employee—and the Company.

It spoke of the increased fares granted by the State Railroad Commission and continued that the increase in operating expenses had over-balanced the increased receipts.

Statement No. 4

Spoke of capitalization. So many people believe that the stock and bonds issued by a corporation have a material effect upon its operating expenses. This, of course, is not the case.

It called attention to the fact that under the California law a public utility is entitled only to a fair return upon the value of its property used and useful in the public service.

That the valuation of this Company's property for that purpose was made by the Railroad Commission and is mentioned in its Decision No. 6459.

It went on to state that if the increased pay roll of $1,613,000 per year was granted, it would be to the equivalent of confiscation.

On September 30th, the Company offered to arbitrate every demand made by the men.

At that time the Company and the Union had a contract which included, among other things, that if arbitration was offered the other side must accept arbitration.

Notwithstanding that provision, the men declined to arbitrate and walked out and retired from our services.

We have given them until Tuesday morning, October 7th, to return to work, without the loss of any of the seniority or pension rights.

REVELATIONS of a WIFE

ADELE GARRISON.

"Well, you certainly are the prize trouble-maker of the universe, Madge!"

Again it was Lillian's face that met my eyes as I awoke from a long refreshing sleep. But this time there was no anxiety in them, and I knew from her words and manner that she would answer the questions I was so anxious to put to her. My sensations were far different than at my first awakening, that terrifying return to life from a long period of unconsciousness. While I realized that I was still unable to resume my usual activities where I had dropped them, yet I felt strong enough to talk with Lillian; indeed, that was the only wish I had.

Lillian's very presence, the off-hand railway which was so characteristic of her were in themselves a tonic. But they were not the only medicines I had received. Since that morning when I had been half-conscious of being partly roused a number of times just long enough to receive draughts or potions which must have done the work designed for them, for I felt their effects in the strength that seemed flowing back to me.

I answered Lillian's railway with a smile, and then my eyes traveled around the room in which I found myself—a pleasant one with an open fire, dainty white curtains at the windows, a chifferoni and table of spotted white, two or three rockers also of white, and the white iron bed upon which I was lying.

"THIS IS FINE."

"I suppose I am in a hospital," I said.

Your suppositions are eminently correct, oh! Vidocq, Jr., returned Lillian. "And now I'll just hand you another supposition, and that is that you're not going to talk until after your breakfast. Then I'll tell you all—after the most approved third act fashion."

The door opened and the same sweet faced nurse whom I had seen with Lillian upon my first awakening, and of whom I had been vaguely conscious during my brief rousings in the night to take the nourishment she offered, came into the room.

"Ah," she said, smiling, "this is fine. Now for some breakfast."

I liked her immediately, and the liking wasn't lessened when, after stepping quietly out of the room and giving her breakfast order, she came back, and in the dearest, tenderest manner possible sponged my face and hands, brushed and braided my hair, and going to the wardrobe brought from it a breakfast gown which I recognized as one of my own.

NO DENYING LILLIAN.

For a moment I wondered widely at the appearance of this familiar article of my wardrobe in this strange hospital, then I looked at Lillian, comprehension dawning in my eyes.

"You have been at my house," "Guiltily, as charged in the indictment," Lillian retorted lightly. "Now get into this, then he back and shut your eyes until your breakfast comes."

There was no disputing Lillian. I felt that I could wheedle even the calm, professional looking, trained nurse more easily than I could my friend. So after the nurse had put me into my breakfast jacket I obediently lay back as Lillian had told me and closed my eyes.

But I was trembling with impatient longing to hear the account of what had happened after I had

TRIBUNE'S DAILY ALMANAC

OCTOBER SIX. German immigrants arrive in the United States. 1883. This immediately notified that their knuckles were strangely vanishing. Kultur introduced to the natives, who received it with indifference. George Westinghouse, manufacturer, born, 1846. He made the sad iron happy by charged lightning. The wildest Cincinnati enthusiast is as a funeral mourner when contrasted with this gentleman's electric fan. German chancellor, Prince Max, asks for armistice, 1918.

SO THAT SOW IT WAS! So, re-write man on the Dixon Tribune. "Harvey Berglund was attracted to his hog yard on Wednesday by an unusual racket and with much anxiety went out to investigate. He found that every one of his registered rods was rooting for the Cincinnati club in the opening game of the world series."

DOGGONE! No insult was intended by Cincinnati adherents after the third game of the series, when they called the winning Chicago pitcher a Korr.

WHERE DO THEY GET IT. Here's what the make-up gentleman or the lining lady or the fellow that copied the story did to a recent yarn from Missouri: "A dollar watch may not amount to much, but Geo. W. Butler so prized one, lost three years ago, that he is happy in having been able that he is happy in having snakes, which took an interest in the time piece."

OCTOBER

I like October weather with its touch of early frost and the trees and wither with some dead old king has lost. And I like the distant hills looking far away from town in their garb of gold and purple and that glorious autumn brown.

I like the mist that rises with the coming of the sun. To betray some bit of beauty that has just been newly done; Oh, there's nothing that's too lowly on the breast of Mother Earth. To receive a touch of color as a symbol of its worth.

I like October's planter for his generous with all. Every leaf is splashed with splendor the day that it must fall. And it passes from its labor to its everlasting rest. Not as one that's worn and weary, but as one that's at its best.

Oh, it never comes October but the thought returns to me That I'd like to end my toiling as a leaf upon the tree— I should like to flutter eastward, touched with scarlet and with gold, And pass onward robed in splendor for the Master to behold.

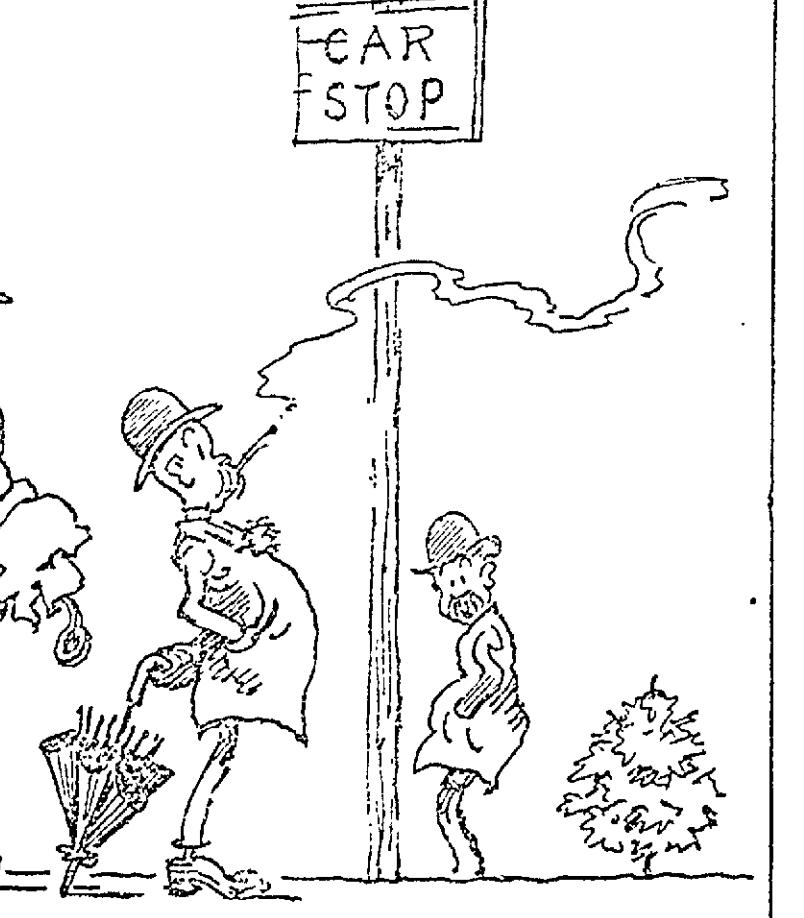

fallen unconscious to the grasp of the inn lawn, and when the nurse came back with a tray holding one of the daintiest breakfasts I'd ever seen served, I tried to eat as rapidly as I possibly could in order to hasten the moment of revelation from Lillian.

But I found that if I proposed, Lillian and the nurse disposed of all in this stuffy stuff. Lillian drew, reaching out an efficient hand and removing the plate from the tray, while the nurse smilingly took away my coffee cup.

"You must eat and drink very slowly," the nurse said in her best professional manner.

"You're both horrid," I said in a petulant, "but I'll be good."

Winifred Black FOLKS AND THINGS

Writes about

Such a pretty girl and so bright—oh, as bright as a brand new dollar, fresh from the mint, twice as interesting and practical, too. She wears such pretty little smocks and neat little skirts and her gloves are always mended. There is no rust on the rim of her hat or even in the folds of the ribbon that goes around it and that is the happy home for dust.

She has such nice, trim, little ankles, neat, pretty, little feet, soft hair with a pink in it, a good skin and merry, rosy cheeks, but oh, her mouth! why, it almost spoils the whole thing.

Yes, it is pretty enough or would be if she would let it, but she turns it down at the corners and smiles sarcastically. At first I couldn't think what was the matter with it.

The other day she told me, "And what do you think it is that is embittering every minute of her life and turning her from a gay, light-hearted, happy girl to a cynical, embittered woman?"

Money, that's all—just plain, common, everyday, miserable money—and the love of it and the lack of it. She is a stenographer in a great, big, luxurious hotel and an excellent good stenographer at that. She can spell and she can punctuate. She knows that there is such a city as Chicago and that a thing as a Bohemian. She has tact, courtesy and discretion.

WHY SHE LONGS FOR. She has a pretty little office of her own in the hotel, with rugs and decent pictures and always a row of some sort in a pretty vase on her desk. The little room is so home-like and cozy that hundreds of men who travel for a living get back to that hotel for Sunday just to die to that girl and her assistant and get a little breath of home and taste and general comfort and human feeling.

She makes money enough to live comfortably, does pretty little Miss Money-Fast. She is independent and has good health and youth. What more does she want?

She wants love and a home and a good husband. She wants fine clothes and a limousine for sunny weather and an open car for rainy weather and new gloves whenever she needs them and becoming hats and boxes at the theater and hosts of friends. And she says she can't get a single one of these things without money—not a single one.

Love? Who talks worth while will make love to her? She has no time for such things.

Friends? How can she make friends when she lives from 5 to 11 in the morning till 5 at night? Her husband? Well, that's simply out of the question. She lives in a tiny flat and can't entertain. What man, then, would be willing to ask a girl like that to be his wife?

Crazy? No, she isn't crazy. She is just warped, that's all. So warped that she is letting her clear, brilliant eyes become dimmed, so warped that she is spoiling her beauty and wasting her youth—all for nothing.

The three happiest wives I know, and I know a good many, happy wives, when they are asked to describe the women who have worked for a living. One of them was a school teacher, one was an actress and one was a public stenographer.

The school teacher married a man who was tired of society. She has money now and a big house and troops of friends. She is happy, but I think she is a little bored sometimes.

Money? What in the world has money got to do with real, genuine happiness we all fight so hard to get? Nothing and less than nothing. A good disposition, a kind heart—these are the gifts of the gods. I do wish the pretty girl would pray for them. Maybe if she prayed hard enough she would get them and then she would be happy, indeed.

SMITH'S. "I've a bill for a frock that you bought some months ago. Which one was it?" "That was the one I wore the night you proposed." "I'm! Pretty strong when a man has to pay for the bill and look that helped to catch him?" "Town Talk."

"I'm looking for bathing suits," "Yes, madam." "I know that. But where can I rent a microscope?" "I hear Mrs. Fox is going to break her husband's will." "How can she? He never had one after he married her."—News Letter.

"So you're still carrying a mortgage on your house, are you?" "Yes, and strange to say I'm carrying it because I can't lift it."

"Why is Adeline so angry with the photographer?" She found a label on the back of her picture saying: "The original of this picture is carefully preserved."

—Stranger. For pardon, sir, how far is it to the North Station drive? I should say about a full golf, three brassies, and a putt.

Lucretia Boni on BEAUTY

In cultivating the beauty of your face you should remember the importance of your forehead. "The brow," as this feature is sometimes called, carries an important part of your expression and is frequently a gauge of intelligence to students of physiognomy.

"Her brow is like the snowdrop," runs the old ballad. All brows may not be as white as a snowdrop, but every brow may be made to appear at its best, that best being controlled by the care of your skin, including the smoothing of wrinkles and frowns, and second by the arrangement of your hair.

Wrinkles are frequently the result of frowns, which in turn may be caused by defective vision. If you still measure your years by youth, and furrows have begun to line your brow, you should first determine their cause and then try to obliterate that. Consult an oculist if you frown constantly.

"Tight" nerves may also cause forehead contractions that result in wrinkles. If your nerves are "tight" try to relax and try to forget whatever your worries may be by walking in the woods or in a park to keep you near to nature. Green trees are great beautifiers, because when you walk among them you are rested, lines are smoothed out like magic and deep breaths of fresh air in-

AUNT ELSIE'S PRETTY DRINKS for ALL RED GIRLS

In a jiffy leading the saddest mile you ever saw.

"Why is little Miss Brown who lives next door?" cried Betty. "Next door?" "That's right," Betty Brown, who lives next door, crying about. "I'm not crying about the small girl. But even as she asked she could guess from the tip of her nose that she was the tip of her nose. She was a story of misery and woe—while her own little Betty, who was nursing from one leg to another in excitement, was a picture of living care and joy."

So out came the sad little story of the little girl who had nothing. But before Mother could speak to comfort her, Betty was shouting and giggling and tumbling all over with an inspiration.

"O! I know what to do!" she cried—"let's take her home and dress her all up with my things, 'cause I have such LOTS!" "Yes, that's a good idea," said her mother. "But I don't want you to see little Miss Brown—no longer unloved and uncared for but part of Betty's own family and in one of Betty's own dresses."

The SOUL CATCHER

by ABIMILAH.

"Exactly! I"—he paused; a dull red overspread his features—"I wanted to make my way in the world. I did not want to be hampered every step of the way. I—"

"Never mind your confounded, sordid reasons and your confounded sordid philosophy of life!" thundered the Dream Doctor. "I don't care a snap of my finger for that. I want the truth—nothing else! I want to know what you did—and not why you did it!"

"I paid money to certain people in Stamboul, in Pera, the European quarter. A man and his wife—"

"You bribed him to swear that he and your wife—"

"Mr. Caterpoulos inclined his head. "Yes."

The doctor was silent. He was deep in thought, a prey of the two conflicting sides of his nature. The part of him which had its roots here, in New York, the Occident, the land of his birth, his training, his atavistic instincts, told him, as it had before, that only one thing mattered: murder was being attempted—murder against a worthless wretched man, but murder just the same, and that thus it was his duty to assist the law, to help in the prevention of the crime. But the unruly part of him, the Oriental ego, counseled him to—to—

His fingers twitched. Hatred and disgust was in his eyes, the thin, upward curl of his lips; and Mr. Caterpoulos, grinning maliciously through his livid face.

"I know what you think, doctor," he said. "But you asked for the truth."

"I got my divorce. I told all the world I was so deeply hurt at my wife's—ah—unfaithfulness that I never wanted to hear her name again. She returned to the home in the hills above Kiblis where her brothers lived during the summer months."

"Is she there now?"

"Yes."

"You know how she lives?"

"No."

"But," insisted the doctor, "you can guess how she lives, can't you? You know how these Kurds, with their primitive brutality, condemn a woman who has been unfaithful to her husband? You knew all that when you divorced her and sent her back to her own people, didn't you?"

"Yes—yes!"

"All right. And you weren't a part of her brother's murder?"

"No. I—Mr. Caterpoulos essayed a crooked smile. "I'm a careful man. You see, I had a mouse around the older brother's neck. All I had to do was to pull it—"

And, ordered by the doctor to proceed, he told him how, a month before the divorce, he had gone home to Kiblis; had gathered certain information; had then divorced his wife; and had sent to Mustafa Shikandar Khan, his former friend, an impudent message that he would meet him at Smyrna the first day of the following month.

"Of course, the two brothers believed their sister; and when Mustafa met me, there was murder in his eyes."

"He was a murderer in his hair, brown fist that held a naked dagger. But I was not afraid. And I told him to control himself."

"For," I said, "I have certain things to tell you, and if you kill me on the spot, it will not help you or your brother. For I have written down every word, duly attested and affidavits attached, and have given it to a lawyer of my acquaintance for safe keeping."

"What?" demanded Mustafa, and I told him.

"I was passing through the street of the Mutton Butchers, a little over five weeks ago, Kiblis, and I saw you and your brother—and the foreigner, the Englishman. I heard the quarrel, the insults. I saw your brother with his dagger and strike—"

"The foreigner insulted my brother first!" cried Mustafa Shikandar Khan. "That cursed infidel! He struck my brother—with his riding whip!"

"True! But your brother drew steel and killed. I saw it. I know where you and your brother hid the corpse—back of the canal stables in Pera Khan's gully. And I have witnessed!"

"There was no way out of it. Mustafa saw it. And I told him that I would stuff my mouth with silence if he and his brother gave solemn oath that neither they, nor any of their friends and relatives and tribesmen, should ever take toll for what I had done to their sister—neither with steel nor bullet nor club, nor whip, nor fist."

"Yes. He gave oath—and so did Talet Yusuf Khan. By the Koran they swore, by their own and their parents' honor, by the honor of their ancestors, by the blood of the Prophet! There was a pause."

"Mustafa will keep his oath," said the doctor finally, "and he will kill you just the same, unless—"

"How can he? How can he kill me without—"

"He will not kill you with steel or with bullet, or with whip or fist. He will kill you—"

"How?"

"With his mind! He will kill you and he will not even be punished for having killed you. There is no law by which to convict him. You will die through an accident!"

Mr. Caterpoulos shivered violently.

"Doctor," he said, his voice rising steadily to a hysterical pitch, "You promised to—"

BERKELEY HAS
AIR TERMINAL
PROPOSITION

BERKELEY, Oct. 6.—Berkeley can be made a government air terminal providing some generous citizen will contribute the site and also provide the business men give enough toward the building of hangars and necessary structures. The government air service will supply the flying equipment and aviators, it became known today. If private individuals will do the rest.

That Berkeley as a municipality cannot give the site or buildings was the report today of Mayor Bartlett to Major Albert Burton Mason, formerly of the Royal Air Service, who conferred with the executive committee of the city council. The city is planning to bring the air service terminal here. Bartlett said that any deal would have to come from private citizens or business men. Mason will make his report tomorrow night to the Allied Flyers' club at its regular meeting here.

It is thought that the organization, made up of former aviators in the allied air service, will foster the move to gain the terminal for Berkeley. Co-operation of interests in Berkeley will be the club's aim. It is said so that funds may be raised immediately and the landing field obtained.

Failure to Provide

Case is Dismissed

ALAMEDA, Oct. 6.—At the request of the complainant, Justice Elmer E. Johnson, sitting for Police Judge L. E. Wolman, dismissed this morning the charge of failure to provide for a minor child made against J. Mellitus by Mrs. Irene Wendell, who claims that Mellitus is the father of one of her minor children. Mellitus was arrested several weeks ago and is being set for opening proceedings today.

Two Balloon Crews

Are Still Missing

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 6.—Although two crews in the national championship balloon race have been missing for four days and a half, anxiety over their fate was considerably lessened last night when it was learned that the pilot and aid of a third balloon reported missing had landed Thursday and spent three days in penetrating the unsettled Perry Sound region, Ontario.

The two remaining craft to be heard from are the St. Louis V and the Wichita, Kansas, entry.

Opens League Fight in Portland

With thanks in his farewells to Californians for listening so carefully to his spoken sentiments in opposition to the League of Nations, Senator Johnson boarded a train at Oakland yesterday night and soon afterward was speeding into the northwest, where he has a three-day schedule at Portland, Tacoma, Seattle and Spokane.

All day yesterday the United States senator from this state spent his time at his Russian Hill home in San Francisco with only a few close personal friends in attendance. Johnson said he was well pleased with the attitude shown by his fellow Californians toward the sentiments he had expressed against the so-called league.

He will arrive at Portland tomorrow morning and is to give two talks—one at a luncheon and another at a mass meeting. Wednesday will find him at Tacoma in the day time and at Seattle at night. Thursday night he will speak to Spokane residents; Saturday Ogden will listen to his arguments against the league and Monday he makes Denver en route to Washington.

JOHNSON'S STATEMENT

Before boarding the train Hiram Johnson said in part:

"I have found here, emphasized, a situation in some degree presented in every state of the union. Very many good people, whose citizenship and motives can neither be questioned nor disparaged, are sincere advocates of the League of Nations. With these people I have no quarrel. I can respect them and their attitude, just as I trust they respect me and my attitude.

"But beyond these good people, in addition to their sincere purpose and wholly honest expression, there are innumerable publicity men and women, extravagantly paid—all of whom are the advocates of the league, who have seized upon every money, capitalized every incident and every possible advocate, and by the strength of organization, the threat of published displeasure and lavish use of funds, have endeavored to create a public sentiment, and by the exercise of power and money measurably succeeded.

In addition to this propaganda, the most clever and astute politicians, caring nothing for the league and everything for political advantage, have skillfully manipulated for political purposes the sentiment thus created, and even used for the purpose many of those who sincerely advocate the league, building behind these two forces, the highly paid public relations men, to enforce peace, and the cunning politicians, is another element, sinister and threatening, the Anglo-Japanese propaganda and press, utilizing in every conceivable fashion the other two.

"It is this last element, the Anglo-Japanese propaganda and press, that has injected into the contest much of its bitterness, and whose chief argument is the cheap, war-worn epithet 'pro-German.' When men are fighting for their country, when they are fighting for the head and heart of their country, when they are fighting for the land they love, they care for neither hand knocks nor abusive epithets. They care only to win, and they win, especially to bring interruptions and to keep the peace, and the cunning politicians, is another element, sinister and threatening, the Anglo-Japanese propaganda and press, utilizing in every conceivable fashion the other two.

"But beyond these good people, in addition to their sincere purpose and wholly honest expression, there are innumerable publicity men and women, extravagantly paid—all of whom are the advocates of the league, who have seized upon every money, capitalized every incident

Extinguisher Saves Man on Fire
Lighted Cigarette Is Pocketed

A thin, blue streak of smoke curled out of the clothes of L. A. Hanly, former inmate of the city prison, where he had been locked for alleged insanity, as Hanly passed the front of Central fire station, where Captain Delorio was still on duty.

Hanly, who had just finished a thirty-day term and had returned with several packages of cigarettes and a "new drink" to the city station, was being escorted by a guard to the station and passed Captain Delorio.

The fire captain ran into the station and got an extinguisher. He pursued and shouted to Hanly. Fearing the authorities were looking for him again, perhaps, Hanly took to his heels.

Captain Delorio pursued, shouting all the time. Finally he caught up with the smoking Hanly, who was now surrounded by thick clouds of smoke. The extinguisher was applied and the fire was put out. Investigation showed Hanly had placed a lighted cigarette in his pocket while he was in the desk sergeant's office.

"This is a new record," said Captain Delorio, "having to run a fire out of breath before you can stop it long enough to put it out."

STRIKE FAILS TO TIE UP ALAMEDA

ALAMEDA, Oct. 6.—Despite the street car and Key Route ferry strike Alameda is getting along comfortably as far as necessary traffic between this city and San Francisco is concerned. The fact that Alameda is and is shaped like the sole of a shoe and that all the transportation lines are built in loops, causing looping the island, causes fairly good service to be afforded by the Southern Pacific line, even without street car service, other than the Southern Pacific cross-town cars. The cross-town schedule is jumbled more or less, cars running at frequent intervals at times and again operating on a half-hour or more apart, due principally to the fact that the necessity of clearing the tracks for the ferry trains. But the regular ferry trains are running on schedule and afford the usual service that is to be expected on the Alameda per ferries.

The cars are crowded most of the time and when behind hand passengers are waiting passengers frequently spilling over the sides, but affording a service which will answer adequately without special hardship for service to the heart of Oakland and Berkeley. Owing to the shut-out of the Southern Pacific and Richmond is, of course, a different matter.

A few jabs are running in this city by the three or four cars that are being used to transport passengers. Most of the jitney operators blame there is a better harbor in Oakland and Berkeley. Owing to the shut-out of the Southern Pacific and Richmond is, of course, a different matter.

ANTI-TRUST CASES
BEGIN TOMORROW

WASHINGTON, Oct. 6.—Because of the unusual delay in the government to push prosecution of anti-trust cases held in abeyance during the war, the session of the Supreme Court which began today is expected to prove one of the most important in the history of the court.

Cases pending include those against the alleged antitrust trust, the United States Steel Corporation, the American Sugar Company, the Associated Biscuit and Distributors of the United States and Canada, the American Can Company, the Quaker Oats Company and the Southern Pacific Merger case.

Following its usual custom, the court did no business today. Arguments in pending cases will begin tomorrow with the hearing of the case of the steel trust.

Others will be argued at intervals, but under an agreement, between the government and the steel trust, Company that case will not be heard until January.

General public interest attaches to another case before the court, that of the steel trust, which is the manufacture of beer containing 2.75 per cent of alcohol. Appeals from lower court decisions at Baltimore and New Orleans already have been heard.

A case of importance to business interests is the Member stock dividend proceedings which will also be heard. The case involves the constitutionality of the provision of the 1914 Nevada law taxing stock dividends as income.

Although the Supreme Court at its last term upheld the constitutionality of the provision, it is pending in cases involving out of state voters under that law.

Among these is the case of James Peterson, candidate for the Republican nomination in 1918, and in 1919, and who was sentenced to four years' imprisonment because of newspaper articles he wrote.

James F. Fisher, clerk of the court, announces that the number of appeals filed this term is 125 less than during the last term. While there is no explanation of this decrease in the number of appeals, Mr. Fisher said he believed it was due to the fact that lawyers generally are becoming more inclined not to appeal cases of only minor importance.

Judge Dismisses
Charge of Battery

ALAMEDA, Oct. 6.—The charge of battery against Paul Goldstone was dismissed this morning by Judge Edgar E. Johnson sitting in the Alameda police court. The dismissal was on written request of the complaining witness, J. E. Bradford, of 1612 Lafayette street, Bradford is an elderly man. Goldstone is a young man. Bradford alleged that Goldstone struck him and knocked him down.

CHURCH TO MAKE WAR ON DIVORCES

DETROIT, Mich., Oct. 6.—Clergy men of the Episcopal church will be prohibited from officiating at the marriage of any person who has been divorced, according to a resolution of the denomination to open here, October 8, adopts the report of a joint conference of bishops, clergy and laymen.

The report, signed by the bishops of North Carolina, Chicago, Long Island, Lexington and Vermont, proposes a new canon, which reads: "No marriage shall be solemnized in this church before a minister, either of whom has a husband or wife still living, who has been divorced for any cause arising after marriage."

A minority report, signed by the Rev. Charles H. Johnson, of St. Bartholomew's church, New York, and a member of the commission, would make the canon read:

"No minister, knowingly, after due inquiry, shall solemnize the marriage of any person who has been or is the husband or wife of any other person then living from whom he or she has been divorced."

A similar proposal before the general convention of 1916 was adopted by a majority of the clerical votes in the House of Bishops, but was defeated by a narrow margin of lay votes. The House of Bishops did not vote on the matter.

Under the present canon law of the church the innocent party to a divorce may be married by an Episcopal clergyman if the bishop, after examination of the court records and consultation with his legal adviser, gives his consent. But even then no clergyman is compelled to officiate at such a marriage.

The proposed resolution makes no distinction between the innocent and Episcopal clergyman from solemnizing the marriage of divorced persons.

Arthur P. Karbach has been appointed by Oakland chapter, American Red Cross, to the chairman of the committee which will direct the local work for the Red Cross roll call taking place during the week of November 2.

Karbach is naming those who will assist him in the vast undertaking of enrolling the men and women who come within the jurisdiction of Oakland chapter in the patriotic society and outlining the plans for the big drive, which in a measure will put the stamp of approval upon the war task which has been completed.

The national campaign which will coincide on the anniversary of the day on which the armistice was signed is designed primarily for membership, and by that to bring $15,000,000 into the treasury to complete obligations at home and abroad. November 11 has been designated as Red Cross Sunday.

"Americanism" is the slogan of the 1919 roll call. Red Cross memberships are: Annual membership, $1; sustaining membership, $5; life membership, $10.

PRODUCTS OF NORTH TO BE

Tentative plans for the establishment of a comprehensive and permanent display of northern California products in Los Angeles were outlined Saturday at a conference of the secretaries of the various chambers of commerce of the northern part of the state at Chico.

It is proposed to maintain an exhibit of the soil and manufactured products of this part of California and to set forth the investment possibilities that this section holds out to the capitalist. Lectures and stereoscopic views will feature the advertising work of the proposed campaign. It is pointed out that Los Angeles furnishes a splendid field for such work, as many eastern tourists visit that city each year and many of them never come to northern California and therefore know little of the possibilities that this part of the state holds out to the capitalist and the home-seeker.

The Chamber of Commerce in this city was represented by E. G. Fisher, secretary of the membership bureau of that body, as Joseph E. Caine, managing director and secretary, was unable to attend the conference.

In furtherance of the proposed plan another meeting of the secretaries will be held at Marysville October 25, at which time it is proposed to make a blanket recommendation that all chambers of commerce in northern California get behind the movement, arrange for the necessary exhibit and employ a competent man to take charge of the work in Los Angeles. Fisher reports that great interest is being taken in the matter.

ALAMEDA, Oct. 6.—F. Tanaka, an Alameda Japanese, living at 2338 Pacific avenue, was awakened at 1:30 yesterday and returned to find a thief had broken a bolt lock on the front door of the Tanaka home and stolen $75, an overcoat, a suit of clothes and two pairs of trousers. VIENNA PAPER
SAYS PEACE IS SICK AS WILSON

VIENNA, Sunday, Oct. 5 (By The Associated Press).—Vienna newspapers contained today, for the first time, editorial comment on the illness of President Wilson. The Volksblatt says:

"The spirit of the 'Master' walked through the world, but from whom we hoped for salvation did not see him, nor did he grasp his mantle. He now is stretched on his bed, where he has ample time to reflect on his lost opportunities."

Recounting the sacrifices made by America in entering the war, the Neue Freie Presse comments on Wilson's high ideals and the glowing and his subsequent cowardice. It then says if his illness forces him to abandon office "it will be an important political event, because it would then become doubtful if the peace treaty, with the League of Nations, would be ratified by the Senate."

Speculating on world politics, as they would develop in such an event, the newspaper predicts:

"The whole peace of Versailles would totter. The peace is as sick as Wilson."

Passes on Slayer

Hunt Nabs Gamblers

HOUSTON, Texas, Oct. 6.—In a pistol fight between Sheriff T. A. Binford with six deputies and approximately ninety men in an alleged gambling game at Goose Creek yesterday, one man was killed and forty-four others arrested.

The sheriff and his posse were in search of a negro charged with having killed another when they came upon the alleged game in an old church building. The negroes opened fire upon the officers.

PEDESTRIAN HELD UP

Edward Nunes, 599 Fourth avenue, has reported to the police that bandits held him up and robbed him of $2 and some jewelry at East Fourteenth street and Fourth avenue last night. He has given the police a description of the pair, who, he says, stopped him on the pretext of borrowing a match, then held him up with a revolver.

BANDITS FORCE
AMERICAN TO PAY RANSOM

WASHINGTON, Oct. 6.—Lindley M. Spillard, an American citizen, was recently kidnapped by Mexican bandits from his ranch at Alvarado, Vera Cruz, but released when a hostage was turned over to his captors. It was announced at the state department this afternoon.

The hostage subsequently was released upon the payment of $5000 ransom. The American consul at Vera Cruz has taken this matter up with the American embassy at Mexico City.
